In 1905, 102 maple trees were planted along the town streets. Unlike former years, very little spraying was done as the elm leaf beetles were found in very much smaller numbers, so that spraying was found necessary for only a few trees. Pruning was the most important work of the year, carried on generally throughout the different sections of the town. Much needed work was done for many of the oldest trees and some of the young, healthy trees that were getting into bad shape. In October, the first nest of the brown-tail moth was found at Easton Centre, near the Town Hall. Since then, with the exception of a few cases, they have been found in orchards along, and near the main thoroughfares throughout the whole town.

No gypsy moth nests have been found yet. The Selectmen acting with the Tree Warden, have appointed Mr. R. W. Melendy town superintendent of brown-tail and gypsy moth work, under the supervision of the Tree Warden. All land owners in the town are urgently requested to co-operate with the Tree Warden and the Superintendent of brown-tail moth work, to rid the town, as far as possible, of this destructive pest.

In order to meet any additional expense that may arise on account of this new work, the Tree Warden respectfully recommends for the care and maintenance of the town trees for the year 1906 an appropriation of $750.00. Work well done now will save the town a large expense in the future.

Respectfully submitted,

JOHN S. AMES,
Tree Warden of Easton.

REPORT OF THE BOARD OF HEALTH.

NORTH EASTON, MASS., Jan. 29, 1906.

To the Citizens of Easton:

The annual report of the Board of Health for the year ending Dec. 31, 1905, is herewith respectfully submitted:

The Board has been obliged to expend a greater amount of money during the year just closed than in 1904. In 1905, by approval of the board the sum of $696.28 was expended as against $247.55 in 1904. An epidemic of scarlet fever in the spring months which was principally localized in South Easton and Unionville as well as a wide spread outbreak of typhoid fever in the late summer and autumn called in a few instances for skilled nursing and also entailed a much greater amount of work upon the members of the Board.

A very thorough investigation of the sanitary condition of the dwellings and outbuildings in North Easton was made in September and in many places the state of affairs was found anything but satisfactory from a hygienic point of view. This was especially noticeable in the outbuildings connected with the large factories. The Shovel Shop pond upon its western border has three large drains opening in to it, and for several feet from the bank the water was thick with the foul sewage brought by these conduits. The condition has since been greatly improved.

Ten of the cases of typhoid in the southern portion of the town were traceable to polluted wells while the great majority of those occurring in North Easton were among persons who either worked or had been sojourning elsewhere. It did not seem to the Board to be attributable in any way to the milk supply as this was drawn from fourteen different sources.

The usual number of complaints have been lodged with the Board which we have investigated and have remedied to the best of our ability with the means at hand.

As stated above, scarlet fever was prevalent in the earlier part of the year and during the year twenty-one cases were reported but none resulted fatally. This epidemic did not attain a very wide-spread extent as thirteen of the cases occurred in three families.

Typhoid furnished the greater number of the victims of infectious maladies as forty-one cases were reported. Of these, twenty-six were confirmed in diagnosis by a blood examination. Nine of them were treated in the Massachusetts General Hospital, one of which proved fatal. The rest were treated at home, and three resulted in death. Several of the cases were of a very severe type. The epidemic was the most extensive typhoid outbreak the town has experienced since 1894.

The Board would respectfully solicit all physicians to report promptly all infectious diseases by mail upon the postal cards which have been furnished by the Board, at the very earliest moment. It is requested that they be reported in this manner rather than verbally or by telephone.

Whooping-cough appeared in the later months of the year. It would be a source of gratification to the Board if, small-pox, diphtheria, scarlet fever, whooping-cough, measles, mumps, cholera, typhoid and typhus fever, and all contagious diseases were reported, especially tuberculosis, as required by the rules of this Board. The death rate was 1.5-10%; the birth rate 2 1-10%.

The above figures show in what way the appropriations and receipts for the repairs of roads have been expended for the past year. In August the State Highway Commission laid out the road called Washington Street, from Stoughton line to Morse's Corner, a distance of 14,700 feet and gave us directions how it should be built, and awarded the town $3,316.44 for what they considered the part the State should pay for. We finished 8700 feet of this road to Daley's Corner, to the satisfaction of the Commonwealth. In addition to this road we built 6347 feet of stone road in different places, which you all have had the opportunity of testing the value of many times this warm winter. With 3,000 tons of stone now at our two complete crushing plants, ready for a large quantity of crushed stone for the ensuing year, which we trust will be so used that a great improvement will be seen in the next few years on many more of our roads.

Respectfully submitted,
 JOHN O. DEAN,
 GEORGE J. ROLLING,
 JOHN J. McCARTHY,
Road Commissioners.

REPORT OF THE SCHOOL COMMITTEE.

To the Citizens of Easton:

We herewith submit our report for the year 1905.

The number of pupils of all ages enrolled in the School Register was.....	1,065
Number between the ages of seven and fourteen..	605
Number between the ages of five and fifteen.....	914
Number over fifteen years of age.....	100
Number under five years of age.....	51
Number attending the High School	111

Mr. F. S. Pope, Jr., began his work as superintendent on Aug. 1st. He came to us with the highest recommendations and we feel assured that his energy and ability will bring about greater efficiency in our school system.

Within the year the town has lost the services of a number of valuable teachers who gave most excellent satisfaction during the years they were employed. There has been too, an unusual number of teachers out of school during the fall term by reason of sickness. This condition has added greatly to the labors of our new superintendent.

The School property is generally in excellent condition. During the summer improvements were made in the Centre School buildings, and the two rooms are now well lighted

A new heating plant has been placed in the Union School at the Furnace, and a similar improvement has been made at Unionville School.

The flooring in the Grammar building at North Easton is in poor condition, and in the near future repairs must be made.

We ask for the usual appropriations.

We refer to the report of the Superintendent of Schools and the other reports appended.

W. H. AMES, Chairman,
D. F. BUCKLEY, Secretary,
GEORGE C. BELCHER.

SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT.

To the School Board of Easton, Mass.:

Gentlemen—I hereby submit my first annual report, the twentieth in the series of such reports to the school committee of this town.

TEACHERS.

Easton has, in my opinion, a strong corps of teachers, whom she is fortunate enough to retain during a period of years, thereby making possible the development of a unified school system.

The adoption of a plan by which your teachers, especially those in the outlying schools, might be assured of a rising scale of salaries during successive years, would produce better schools. It is economy to keep good teachers even if you have to pay them more money.

When teachers are engaged it should be with the understanding that they are to remain for one year if their work progresses satisfactorily. Normal school graduates of experience, all other things being equal, should be employed. Real demonstrated merit should, however, be the only prescribed qualification.

SCHOOL BUILDINGS.

Changes in the heating apparatus at Unionville, Easton Furnace and Easton Centre, have made it possible so far this winter to keep the school rooms warm enough for comfort.

The floors of the Oliver Ames High School, which were beginning to splinter badly in places, were dressed last fall with an oil which lays the dust and preserves the wood. New floors are needed in the grade building at North Easton. If new floors were laid in two or three rooms a year, the whole building would soon be renovated.

The slate boards placed in the North Easton building near the end of the year have been appreciated by the teachers. Slate boards, although expensive, are the most economical boards to purchase as they never have to be repaired.

If a mixer were added to our school lighting plant in North Easton, a lower grade of gasolene could be purchased, less of it would be used, and fewer burners would be needed.

TEXT BOOKS AND SUPPLIES.

By obtaining bids from several firms on large quantities of the supplies most commonly used it has been found possible in many instances to obtain reduced prices.

With the introduction of the Mother Tongue, Book I., into grades 4, 5 and 6, the establishment of the Harrington Speller as the prescribed text for all grades, and the choice of the Metcalf Grammar as the basal text for grades 7, 8 and 9, our text book standard, with the exception of physiology and hygiene, becomes uniform. New physiologies should be introduced at once, and the arithmetic now in use should in the near future be superseded by a more practical text. While the lower books of the Nichols' series of arithmetic are satisfactory, the higher books are not. The book that stands half way between the old-fashioned topical and the modern spiral is now the favorite, and rightly so.

COURSE OF STUDIES.

My predecessor said in his 1904 report: "The general course of study for our schools has been in use several years and in many ways need revisions to bring it up to the requirements of recent standards."

In agreement with the above recommendation, your present superintendent has thoroughly revised the language course of study, and it is now in the hands of the printer. The outlines, as rapidly as they were completed for the different grades, were submitted to teachers for a critical review, and a second revision was then based largely upon their practical criticism. It is my purpose, as stress of other work permits, to revise some of the other courses in the same way.

SIGNAL FOR NO SCHOOL.

When, on account of a severe storm, there is to be no school in the grade building at North Easton, parents are notified of this fact by the ringing of the school bell at 8.10 A. M., or at 12.40 P. M.

SPECIAL TEACHERS.

Miss Ethel W. Ratsey, who has done very faithful and efficient work as supervisor of drawing during the last few years, has resigned, her resignation to take effect January 1st. Her successor will be chosen at once. The schools outside of North Easton should be visited by the drawing supervisor. Without direct supervision the work in drawing, a subject which the law requires us to teach, has but little value.

Attention is called to the interesting report of Mr. J. E. Shepardson, supervisor of music, and Miss Aimee E. Lundgren, teacher of sloyd. Miss Nettie L. Withington, principal of the Kindergarten, reports a gain in attendance, a subject of which she wrote in her last year's report.

The sewing teachers, Mrs. M. Eva Clements and Mrs. Etta F. Andrews, report that nearly six hundred articles have been completed by the girls during the year. Comparisons instituted through visits made by our teachers to other sewing schools prove that our work is good.

HIGH SCHOOL, GYMNASIUM AND BAND.

The report of Mr. C. P. Kendall, principal of the Oliver Ames High School, is appended. All of his statements and reccommendations are endorsed by the superintendent. Under his efficient direction distinct gains have been made.

The Gymnasium and the Band, which present unusual benefits and enjoyment to high school pupils, and to some of the pupils in the grades—advantage attributable entirely to the generosity of Mrs. Anna C. Ames—certainly deserves mention in our school report. Reports have been solicited from the leaders of these two organizations.

INNOVATIONS AND CHANGES.

We shall try to have at least six general teachers' meetings a year, and these meetings will generally be held on pay days. Building meetings in North Easton will be held as occasion requires. Minneographed circular letters containing definite directions for work are sent at intervals to all teachers.

All teachers are now marking on the same basis. Letters, comprehending certain per cent. limits, are used on all report cards instead of figures, because we believe this method of marking is fairer. Probably a history or a geography paper containing answers to ten questions would on a per cent. basis be awarded five different marks if corrected by as many teachers. Written tests, which are given in three subjects every month, count for one-third when promotion is considered.

We made at the beginning of the school year a study of the daily program. Teachers of graded schools made their programs agree closely with a program table of time limits which was given them. In rooms containing several grades the requirements could of course be only approximated.

The Batavia System of Individual Instruction, plan for devoting half of the recitation time to class and the other half to individual teaching, is now attracting the attention of educators. Recognizing the value of the principles involved—principles which cannot be discussed here at length—we are reserving, not for the lazy or indifferent individual, but rather for the boy or girl who tries and fails, a period a day. At this time every worthy pupils has a chance, not to be helped, but to be taught how to help himself. Most of the assigned time is devoted to written and oral language and to arithmetic. A majority of our teachers believe this period a valuable one and wish that its length might be increased.

A certain amount of bookkeeping, which should be reduced to a minimum, is necessary in a well organized school. We are now maintaining in all grammar schools a permanent record book in which are recorded by terms the marks attained by pupils in the different subjects. In future years it will be possible to promote more intelligently because of the possibility of surveying the work of pupils during the preceding years as well as the present one. In the outlying schools, where there is a greater likelihood of a change in teachers, a record is kept by terms of the work accomplished, so that the new teachers may know just where to begin. Through these records the superintendent may more easily keep in touch with the work the schools are doing, and the teachers may to a certain extent pass judgment on themselves as instructors. Necessary deviations from the course of study are indicated in this record. The daily programs, after they have been approved by the superintendent, are copied in these books.

The rule of your school committee which gives the superintendent power to exclude from school children under five years of age has been interpreted literally. Both children and schools are benefited by this exclusion. It is probably unwise to admit beginners to the graded schools at the beginning of the winter term; and it is certainly unadvisable to admit them to the ungraded schools, in which the teachers are already overworked.

Good teachers appreciate the opportunity of demonstrating their successes to the parents of their pupils. Interested parents can devote an afternoon or two a year to an inquiry into their children's progress at school. In actual practice the number of parents visiting our schools is too small. In recognition of these facts, near the close of last term, most of our teachers issued special invitations to the parents of their pupils, inviting them to attend an exhibition of regular school work. On this occasion the number of visitors for the town aggregated four hundred seventy-five. It is our intention to issue invitations for at least one more Parents' Day during the present school year.

Teachers now send to the superintendent every four weeks reports containing answers to questions regarding attendance and other matters. Frequently tables showing the relative attendance standing of the different schools are issued from the superintendent's office.

Most of our first grade rooms were at some earlier time equipped with charts and apparatus for teaching the Comprehensive Method of Primary Reading. We have this fall purchased the readers that accompany the charts, and have begun to use the method throughout the town to the exclusion of all other methods. Early in the term the author of the system addressed the teachers.

It is my intention to devote five or six days a year to the inspection of some of the best elementary schools in Massachusetts, and to conference with their superintendents and teachers. Teachers who are candidates for positions in Easton will be visited in their schools when this course is practicable.

CONCLUSION.

This report is purposely conservative. No attempt has been made to discuss present day pedagogical problems.

In closing I desire to thank the teachers for their hearty co-operation with me in our common labor, and the committee for their sympathy, interest, and real helpfulness that have made my work pleasant.

Respectfully submitted,
FREDERIC S. POPE, Jr.

REPORT OF GYMNASIUM AND BAND INSTRUCTORS
EMPLOYED THROUGH THE BENEFICENCE
OF MRS. ANNA C. AMES.

Boston, Jan. 20, 1906.

Citizens of Easton:

After over five years of work with the band we are now at what seems the most discouraging period. All of the original band have graduated, many have left town, others are working in Brockton, or nearby places, and their time is so occupied that they can give little or no time to practice; consequently the ensemble of the band must suffer for it.

Rehearsals are not attended as we would like, and the better players can never find time for a lesson. The work of all of the instructors has grown harder and we are called upon oftener here in Boston than four years ago; so we cannot give two regular days without fail, but must catch at any day possible, which we do, and the pupils are always ready when we arrive. About 15 new boys are now under way and in a short time will be able to join the band in the playing of concert work. Parents can help us greatly if they will impress upon the boy the importance of practicing, not only the day he is to take his lesson, but each day of the week; if only for half an hour, some good will result. I want you to urge greater care of the instruments. Some are in bad condition, and mostly through lack of care; but on the whole they have been kept remarkably well, especially those of the older members.

We still need a few good bright musical boys willing to practice and give time for lessons. It is a chance which all the boys might be proud of, and an incentive to work, and show the appreciation for the one who lays out a large amount of money for them.

In another year the band will be 100 per cent. better than at present. The new members will have had some experience and more confidence in themselves. We shall give concerts this coming summer and hope to have a new bandstand built so as to give a better effect than in the past, and a good tone instead of deadening the sound, but to obtain those things we need the interest and help of all.

H. E. BRENTON.

Citizens of Easton:

Physical Training is not compulsory for the pupils but all who wish to take up the work, have a splendid opportunity. The Ames Gymnasium is open for the boys three afternoons a week for regular gymnastic training. Throughout the year, exercises with Chest weights, Dumbbells, Wands, Indian clubs and the apparatus, have been carried out regularly.

The hours for work have been so arranged that it will in no way interfere with the school work; and it is not desired that any one should neglect their school or home duties to attend the gymnasium. The training of one's body is a very important factor in one's education, and regular systematic exercise is what everybody should take.

Many of the boys have developed rapidly, and the results of their work in the gymnasium are very noticeable. This being true, more boys should take up the work and their parents should see to it, that the boys devote some of their time to physical training.

The attendance for the past year has been very good, especially among the grammar school boys who show more interest and are doing better work than ever before.

Fencing has received much more attention than in the past, and the opportunity is given to anyone who wishes to become skillful in this art, as individual instruction is given to all who desire it.

The Basketball teams were very successful last year and were strongly supported. More games were played and the attendance at the games was much larger than in previous years.

HARRY PRATT.

To the Citizens of Easton:

It is extremely interesting to watch the development and growth of the young girls who attend the gymnasium, particularly the girls of the upper grammar grades, in the intermediate stages of growth. Nothing accomplishes this transition, from awkward childhood to strong, well-developed girlhood, more gracefully and harmoniously than well-regulated exercise.

The little girls enter the gymnasium, awkward of movement, diffident, conscious of hands and feet—but eager, enthusiastic, and ambitious to do everything, from climbing the highest rope to being skilled basketball players. The running, the jumping, and climbing, the swinging of clubs, the games, and graceful dancing steps, all do their share toward rounding and strengthening the muscles, and developing the little bodies gradually, but surely, until, almost before they realize it, the awkward child has entirely disappeared, and another, quicker, lithier, more active, and mentally and physically at ease, has taken her place. And it is a fact that the best gymnasts, and those most proficient in athletic work, are invariably the brightest scholars, for the development of the mind is co-incident with the development of the body.

In the large cities, physical training forms an important part of the school work. As it involves considerable cost to build, equip and maintain a gymnasium, only a few of the more fortunate towns are able to boast of one. I am continually reminded in visiting the various towns, how fortunate are the pupils of the North Easton schools in possessing what so few other towns enjoy, and all should take advantage of it while they can.

MAUDE E. SCANLON.

North Easton, Jan. 18, 1906.

Superintendent F. S. Pope:

Dear Sir—As Principal of the Oliver Ames High School, I cheerfully submit the following report of the conditions and needs of the school:

We have 110 pupils enrolled, 52 boys and 58 girls. Taken as a whole they are an excellent class of young people to work with. They are industrious, behave well, and attend regularly in spite of the fact that over two-thirds of them come a distance of from one to twelve miles.

The parents here, as elsewhere, do not visit the High School as often as we wish they would. In fact we have had only one parent attend our recitations this year. But there are many important matters in regard to school life, on which parents really ought to be informed. For example, the child's school life should be his main business while he is here. He should get all the good out of the school that he possibly can. To do this he must work on his studies at least two hours each day at home. Another important matter not generally understood is that almost every month some prospective employer writes to ask about the intelligence, industry, and honesty of former pupils. Frequently these questions are of a deep and searching nature. So it is greatly to the pupil's advantage to leave a good record behind.

At the end of each month we send the parents report cards stating the grade their children have attained in each individual study, and also in industry and deportment. These cards are to be signed by the parents and returned. Then at the end of every term we send each parent a personal letter telling him frankly just how his child is getting on in school. Finally, I shall visit every home represented in the High School at least once this year. I have already visited more than half of them, and in every instance I have been cordially and courteously received. Parents and teachers should understand each other as thoroughly as possible.

At the beginning of this year the commercial course was so overcrowded that the teacher could not possibly supervise the whole of the work. So many pupils were out of their regular courses that it was impossible to arrange a program which would not shut these pupils out of a part or the whole of their work. The School Committee, therefore, together with the Superintendent and myself made some necessary changes. These changes have been helpful, but as Mr. Tirrell reported last year, our teaching force is too small to do good work in a school of this size. Every teacher should have at least one full period each day to help backward pupils. During this whole term one of our teachers has had, and still has, only three periods per week. And I, myself, have had only two. This has given me no time to drill on public speaking and debating, both of which are highly important; no time to help backward pupils who live out of town and so cannot return in the afternoon; and no time for supervision except as I have taken it from my regular classes.

Even working as we are, we have been obliged to shorten several of our courses one or more periods per week. This same state of affairs existed last year and was emphasized by Mr. Tirrell in his report. We need another teacher working at least half time. This would give ample opportunity to help the backward pupils, drill in public speaking and debate, bring our commercial course up to a higher standard, and raise our Latin course to meet the requirements of the College Entrance Board. Then our pupils would stand a better chance to pass directly from this school to office work; or they would enter college on certificate from here without taking examinations. In fact the work of another teacher would strengthen our whole school.

Further, we need a hood in the chemical laboratory to carry off the noxious gases. This is a highly important matter and is worthy of immediate attention. The teachers' room also, should be fitted up so that when pupils are taken ill they may have a suitable place to rest until they can be sent home. This would also serve as a Principal's office, where he could meet parents and others in a business way.

I wish to express my very high appreciation of our excellent town library together with its courteous and thoroughly able librarian. It is a most decided benefit to this school.

Sincerely yours,

CHARLES P. KENDALL.

North Easton, Jan. 22, 1906.

To the Superintendent of Schools, Mr. F. S. Pope:

Dear Sir—The Sloyd classes in the North Easton Grammar School have commenced their sixth year of work under the same instructor. Referring to former reports, we would state that the arrangement of work, the objects, the methods, means, and aims are substantially the same. We are glad to note a growing attitude of appreciation and interest among the pupils, and that the cases of discipline are fewer than ever.

Since the thorough repairs during the Summer, when our benches were furnished with iron vise-screws, we have been obliged to expend a small additional sum, in order to secure the vises against the bearing of the new screws, and we have now succeeded in gaining a satisfactory result.

We wish to express our thanks to the committee of the Oakes Ames Fund for their readiness to meet our request.

The work for the current year has progressed much as usual. Following is a list of successive models which constitute the course of work. They involve fifty-seven exercises, and the use of twenty tools:

GRADE VI.—No. 1, Foot rule; 2, shrub label; 3, hexagonal mat; 4, plant stand; 5, key board; 6, pen tray; 7, polishing board; 8, tea pot stand; 9, corner bracket; 10, coat hanger; 11, preserve stirrer; 12, sink scraper.

GRADE VII.—No. 1, Plant pin; 2, hack rack; 3, wedge; 4, foot stool; 5, cutting board; 6, pen holder; 7, stamp box; 8, blotter; 9, pen tray; 10, shelf; 11, clothes fork; 12, knife box; 13, towel rods; 14, sink scraper.

GRADE VIII.—No. 1, shelf; 2, foot stool; 3, paper cutter; 4, nail box; 5, hammer, hatchet, or axe-handle; 6, ink stand; 7, flower stool; 8, clothes line reel; 9, jointed bread board; 10, towel rack; 11, jointed frame; 12, cake spoon, or scope.

The members of the ninth grade have the privilege of choosing their models, within a certain limit. The objects completed, or now in process of construction are as follows: Hall seats, revolving book shelves, convertible kitchen tables, canoe paddles, stands of various constructions, towel racks, ironing tables, taborates. Pupils from other districts:—Key racks, sleeve boards, towel rollers, foot stools, knife boxes, book racks, paper cutters, sleds.

These models are largely done independently, and show in most cases careful work. We extend a cordial invitation to parents and friends to visit our classes.

While offering to the teachers of the various grades our grateful recognition of their kind interest and hearty co-operation in our efforts to keep the classes up to the highest attainable standard, we should be yet more indebted to them, if they could find opportunity to assist us in establishing as intimate a correlation with other branches, as possible. We have in former reports mentioned Mechanical Drawing, as being naturally the strongest link between the Sloyd bench and the school desk; and we are trusting that this Branch will soon receive due attention. Besides, there might be free hand representations of the trees, which furnish our most common lumber: their leaves, blossoms and fruits, which surely from artistic standpoint fall short of no other nature study. In Physical Geography, in Mathematics, in Composition, there are many chances for correlation.

How interesting it would be to the boys, and how it would help them to realize, and to utilize to a far greater extent than before, the splendid opportunities which the Sloyd room affords!

Respectfully submitted,
A. E. LUNDGREN.

Mr. Frederic S. Pope, Superintendent of Schools:

Dear Sir—I am pleased to report satisfactory results in the study of music. During the past year more progress has been made than in any previous year. This is particularly noticeable in the schools of North Easton. The part singing is much more tuneful, the pitch more accurately sustained, the expression is better and the sight reading is much improved.

The ungraded schools are also doing good work; perhaps they are doing as well as could be expected, for the teaching of music in ungraded schools is particularly difficult. Music, perhaps more than any other study, requires the co-operation of the many, and where the children are of such varied ages, part-singing cannot be carried on very satisfactorily.

The Grammar School at North Easton is in need of a new book. I am looking for something suitable, and hope soon to find a book which I can recommend.

The Laurel Song Book which has been introduced in the Oliver Ames High School is meeting a long-felt need. If more attention could be given to the minute details in the rendering of the music, and if more personal work could be done, it would greatly aid in this school. Under the present arrangements I have no time for such work.

More personal work is being done in all grades of school music, than ever before. The time has been when children were taught as a class, irrespective of the individual child. That time has passed. Music affords more opportunity than perhaps any other study, for children to rely almost wholly upon others. Many a child can sing fairly well with a class who can scarcely read the music at all, when left to his own resources. Individual work reveals to teacher and pupil alike, just how much is really known, and how much is imitation. In schools where part-singing is studied, we let two or three children take the parts alone, one taking the soprano, another the second soprano, and another the alto. Each child thus becomes accustomed, not only to hearing his own voice alone, but to sustaining his part alone, which is a much more difficult thing to do.

Respectfully submitted,

J. E. SHEPARDSON,
Supervisor of Music.
